The Quake Of 1868

Col. Will E. Fisher, who for years was in the real estate business in San Francisco, and whose father owns considerable property in that city, remembers as a child the earthquake of 1868.

The earthquake of that year, he says, was the most severe the city ever felt previously. Large cracks in the earth opened in various portions of the city; several people lost their lives and many were injured. Big chimneys were precipitated and several buildings were wrecked. In 1869 there was another earthquake, but little material damage being done. Fisher also remembers the earthquake of 1888, but declares that that of 1868 was the only one that did great damage.

"There was a big boom on in real estate in San Francisco," says Fisher, "and this catastrophe will prove a great set-back."

SAN FRANCISCO WRECKED

molit and panic that it is impossible to know just what has happened. From all that can be learned the damage by the earthquake is principally below Montgomery street.

The land lines of the city are demoralized, and it is highly probable that Honolulu learned of the catastrophe before the people of the States were informed.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—(Received at Honolulu office at 9:20 A.M.) The Call building is wrapped in flames, everything seems to be going to ruin. The Grand and Palace Hotels are rapidly going.

We are forced to close down here now. Stand by to receive messages from us, if possible, from the street. We are abandoning the office. There is no hope of saving it. Good-bye!

Market Street Is Doomed

8:45 A. M.—A cablegram has been received from San Francisco, stating that the Call building collapsed an hour ago. The whole street is doomed. The cable men in San Francisco are preparing to move, but fear they will not be able to connect up at once on account of failure to obtain cartage. The San Francisco cable office is at 533 South Market street.

City May Be Sinking

From a message received this morning at the cable office, it is believed that the water is advancing from the Bay and going toward the center of San Francisco. The message is somewhat ambiguous, and it is not possible to tell if the words "rapidly coming up," refer to the fire or the water. As the waterfront is ground that was filled in, and was originally a marsh, it is possible that the ground is sinking and the water will cover the large part of the business section of the city.

Cables Are Held

The cable office at 10:45 a. m. sent the following to persons who had filed cables at the Honolulu office:

HONOLULU, 4/18/06.

Your message to . . . is held here subject to delay owing to our office in San Francisco being destroyed by fire.

Superintendent Gaines is testing the cable between here and San Francisco to learn if there is any break. One of the last dispatches to him is rather ambiguous. He cannot quite make out whether the cable office is being surrounded by fire or that the water is coming up.

Fearing that the cable had been injured somewhere between San Francisco and Honolulu, a test was made at the local office a little before 11 o'clock this morning, but it was found that the cable is still in good condition until it reaches San Francisco Bay. The delay in getting the cable beached at the Cliff House is attributed to the impossibility of getting transportation for the workmen and their repairing material from the center of the city to the Cliff House. All street cars are out of commission and all other kinds of conveyances, it is believed, are not operating.

Mr. Gaines is now of the opinion that the dispatch which might have been interpreted to mean that the water is advancing in the city refers simply to the flames. He states that all the business district south of Market street is in ruins, and that the flames were spreading rapidly. The whole city is in a panic.

Merchants' Sympathy

The following cable gram was forwarded to San Francisco by . . .

Secretary E. H. Paris at an early hour this morning:

Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco:

Heartfelt sympathy. Can we serve you? Wire particulars.

HONOLULU MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

Area Of Destruction

8:30 A. M.—A cablegram is said to have been received, stating that the area of destruction is below Montgomery street and all below that is under water.
